Orange Groves Impress Land Bank Heads Here

12 PRESIDENTS MAKE TOUR OF COUNTY

Officials Visit Santa Ana Credit Offices as Part of Survey

Presidents of the 12 federal land banks in the United States stopped in Santa Ana this morning on a survey to be used as a basis of passing upon farm loan values and policies at a conference to be held Wednesday at Oakland. The delegation inspected the Orange County National Farm Loan Association managed by C. A. Palmer, and the Orange County Production Credit Association, in charge of W. D. Miller.

Orange county is one of few places where both of these two cooperating organizations are maintained.

Highly Impressed
The group, many of whom never had seen an orange grove, were highly impressed with agricultural conditions found here. Also, the comment was made that the land bank lends a greater proportion of actual value on citrus property here than in Florida.

The officials stopped today to see the C. C. Chapman orange grove and packing plants near Fullerton, before coming to Santa Ana.

Goss Heads Group
Under the leadership of Land Bank Commissioner A. S. Goss, the delegation arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. Mr. Goss was unable to make the trip to Orange county. Today the highlights of Southern California agriculture were observed by the visitors. The delegation was to stop at Riverside for lunch.

Tonight the men will enroute at Glendale to Fresno. From there they will go up the San Joaquin valley to inspect the river delta farm district.

The conference at Oakland will be the first such affair held in California since 1917.

"Marked Improvement"
Commissioner Goss was quoted today as saying that business of the 12 land banks throughout the (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

Tax Framers Agree On 'Windfall' Levy

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—A house ways and means subcommittee agreed today to recommend to the full committee a high "windfall" tax to recapture perhaps $100,000,000 of refunded or unpaid AAA processing levies.

"It is safe to say we are going to recommend the windfall tax," Chairman Samuel B. Hill (D., Wash.) said. He added the subcommittee was working on a report now and expects to complete it Thursday, or Friday, to allow the full committee to start open hearings next Monday on the President's $792,000,000 tax program.

4 GENERATIONS AT WEDDING

Bride, 71, Is Great-Grandma

Four generations of one family were present at a wedding ceremony performed today by Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison. This fact alone is of interest, but here's the real point of interest:

The bride is a great-grandmother, Mrs. Bel Bartlett 71, of Inglewood. The bridegroom was George H. Locke, 66, Harbor City. The blushing couple were accompanied by the bride's son,

Dust Storm Holds Oklahoma, Texas In Choking Grip

GUYMON, Okla., March 23. (AP)—Choking dust clouds enfolded the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles today as March winds roared after an overnight respite.

The dust area was much smaller than yesterday, when silt-laden clouds spread a haze from the Southern Pacific coast as far east as Kansas City.

Farmers here said the third consecutive day of choking dust had reduced their once promising wheat crop prospects to 25 per cent of normal. Electric lights were needed in homes and business houses here today. Motorists who ventured out used their headlights.

LEAGUE ASKS ARMISTICE

New Peace Plea Framed For Italy, Ethiopia; Await Hitler Reply

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)
LONDON, March 23. — The "committee of 13" of the League of Nations council, ordered a new, direct plea for peace transmitted to Italy and Ethiopia today.

The committee, which comprises every member of the council except Italy, made this effort toward a quick armistice in Africa while it awaited a reply from Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany to proposals for ending the crisis precipitated by Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland.

Informed sources said the league expected Hitler to accept the proposals—but with strong reservations.

At the same time the council made its bid for peace in Africa, it decided to send to the Italian government a new Ethiopian proposal concerning the use by Italian forces of asphyxiating gas.

Abandon First Plan
J. A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the league, and Salvador de Madariaga of Spain, president of the committee, were charged with sending the peace plea to Rome and Addis Ababa.

League observers said that today's session clearly indicated the Italo-Ethiopian war settlement was closely linked with, and probably would be subordinated to, the settlement of the Rhineland problem.

Charges Insincerity
It was stated by a member of the committee—not even Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian foreign commissar, who habitually advocates strict enforcement of the league covenant—spoke clearly and forcefully on the Italo-Ethiopian issue.

One observer described the session as being dominated by "collective insincerity."
The committee empowered De Madariaga not only to call Rome's attention to the Ethiopian complaint concerning poison gas but to confer with Addis Ababa on the Italian accusations the Ethiopians are using Red Cross symbols to protect their troops from air bombs.

The committee faced this situation:
Launch New Attack
Both Italy and Ethiopia have accepted the league peace appeal and have agreed to undertake negotiations.

Italy, however, latest reports from the war zone said, has launched a new offensive on the southern front, including heavy bombardments of the vital city of Jijiga.

Ethiopia protested against the bombings and alleged gas attacks, declaring, "We remain uncowed. There can be no peace until Ethiopia territory has been freed from the invader."

Witnesses to the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Earl K. Carter, Long Beach. Mrs. Carter is a granddaughter of the bride, and her husband is superintendent of "sets of Long Beach.

$85,000 PAID TO COUNTY BEAN MEN

Checks Mailed today to All Growers in 3 Associations

A shower of dollars, $85,000 of them brightened the world today for Orange county lima bean growers. Checks totaling $85,000 were sent today to lima bean growers of this county by the California Lima Bean Growers association. The money represents about a one-tenth payment for the 1935 crop.

The checks were mailed to growers in three associations, the San Joaquin, Smelter and old Newport association which has a warehouse located at Greenville. Eighty per cent of the lima beans of Orange county are handled through these associations.

Total income in Orange county from lima beans was estimated at $1,530,320 in the annual crop report of Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs. Blackeye beans brought in $216,000, baby limas $2600, and other beans $7600, the report said.

One person narrowly escaped death and five others were injured early Sunday when a 16-foot skiff, carrying seven members of the Laguna Beach Community Players, capsized in rough water near Fisherman's Cove, Laguna Beach.

Weighted down by heavy clothing and buffeted about by the large swells, Dick Malone and Bill Paul reached safely only after a terrific struggle, eye-witnesses said. As they fought their way to shore, Police Officer Howard Alenson arrived on the scene and sent for the first aid squad.

When Malone and Paul finally reached shore, Malone started resuscitation efforts on Paul. Arrived the inhalator squad arrived, nearly 10 minutes were required to revive Paul.

Reports said the party had planned to use two boats for their Sunday outing and were making their way to the second craft when the upset occurred.

Dr. Townsend Denies Making Borah Pledge

PENSION HEAD SAYS HE IS 'FRIENDLY'

Third Party Certain if Candidates Are 'Cool,' Declares Leader

LOS ANGELES, March 23. (AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend today made clear that he has not pledged the Townsend old age pension movement to support the candidacy of Senator Borah for the Republican nomination for the presidency.

"I am not trying to commit our organization to any one," Dr. Townsend said. "Moreover, in politics, one can never know when a candidate's attitude may change and it is not my wish to be entangled by pledges."

"I have said that Senator Borah was the only one to show sympathetic attitude toward our movement, and naturally I personally feel friendly toward him."

Raps Democrats
"My action in changing registration to Republican was to offset the unfair tactics of the Democratic organization in Southern California that is constantly calling on the Republican voters to change their registration to Democrat."

"I am making no effort to regiment the members of the Townsend organizations in an effort to throw the strength of those organizations to either the Democrat or Republican parties. To attempt such a thing would repudiate the action of the Chicago convention which distinctly reiterated the fact that the Townsend groups were non-partisan."

Support Pension Backers
"The Townsend organizations everywhere will continue the policy of supporting the men for congress who are unqualified for the Townsend plan, regardless of whether as candidates they are labeled Republican or Democrat."

Washington dispatches earlier today said Townsend had endorsed Borah's campaign.

A signed statement issued today by Dr. Townsend goes on to state:
"Townsend further asserts that whatever action he takes relative to registration or voting will be merely as an expression of his personal attitude and cannot in any manner be interpreted as an attempt to coerce the voters of his organizations against their will. He does state frankly that the Democratic administration has thus far shown little inclination favorably to the Townsend plan."

He does not expect from this administration in the future any change in attitude in this regard.

"Not Much Faith"
"He hopes there is still a possibility of the Republicans showing a more favorable attitude, but he is not pinning implicit faith in such action on the part of the Republicans."

"He announces emphatically that (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

++ County Landmarks ++

San Juan Capistrano Mission Oldest Such Building; Is Tourist Mecca

(In an effort to acquaint residents of Orange county with some of their most prized historic possessions, The Journal today is beginning publication of a series of daily articles on county landmarks. These articles will describe their location and give historical facts concerning them. The first in the series tells about San Juan Capistrano mission.—Editor.)

Orange county's best known and most important landmark is San Juan Capistrano mission, 24 miles south of Santa Ana on Highway 101. It is important not only because of its history but also because it is the oldest building now standing in the state of California. San Juan is the seventh mission, but the earlier buildings have all been replaced.

The mission was established Nov. 1, 1776, by Father Junipero Serra, founder of the California missions and one of the most famous characters this state has produced. His name is still known and revered throughout the state.

In 1812 an earthquake destroyed the stone church, the ruins of which are still standing. Forty Indians were killed in the disaster. After that the old church was used.

In the Pleasants history of Orange county it is recalled that "this mission suffered perhaps more than any of the others in the confiscation which goes under the name of secularization of the missions, for all the experiments were tried out here, and finally in 1845, the buildings except the church and two missions were illegally sold at auction for $710. This fraud was remedied by President Lincoln in 1865, when by his own hand he decided back the mission to Bishop Alemany and his successors in trust for the Catholic church."

The recent history of the mission has been characterized by its restoration under the guiding hand of the late Father St. John O'Sullivan. It is now a mecca for tourists and Californians interested in history. It is presided over by the Rev. Father A. J. Hutchinson. Johnny Aguilar is the affable guide at the mission.

Two Youths Held In Man's Murder

LOS ANGELES, March 23. (AP)—Police held two youths today on suspicion of the "murder-by-alcohol" of Benjamin F. Weber, 67, liquor store proprietor.

David Searcy, 18, and Johnny Starnes, 22, were arrested yesterday when Detective Lieutenant C. A. Gillan said Searcy confessed.

SCORES FLEE CINCINNATI; 172 DEAD

Eastern Flood Damage Exceeds $500,000,000; Hartford Hard Hit

By THEODORE F. KOOP

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)
With the flood crest of the Ohio roaring down toward its confluence with the Mississippi, sweeping new destruction and destitution along with it, the nation went to work today on one of the most gigantic rehabilitation tasks in its history.

In the eastern states, a panorama of death and desolation after a week of havoc, rivers either were receding rapidly or had subsided into normal channels.

Death List Changes
But the recession left only a clearer picture of the vast reconstruction task ahead.

The death list was revised downward by a re-check in Pennsylvania, the worst sufferer among the states. The death toll stood at 172.

By states, the deaths in the last week were:

Pennsylvania 112; West Virginia 18; Ohio 4; Maryland 4; New York 2; Massachusetts 10; Connecticut 1; Vermont 5; New Hampshire 1; Maine 5; Virginia 4; Georgia 2; North Carolina 2.

Unofficial and official estimates of the property damage mounted to more than $500,000,000. Throughout the devastated area, more than 425,000 persons were homeless.

Almost as many, including thousands of CCC and WPA workers, were engaged in rebuilding and repairing.

Hartford Hard Hit
Hartford, Conn., isolated and battered for two days by the rampage of the Connecticut river, was typical of the destruction heaped upon some of the nation's large cities. The damage there was estimated by business men at more than $25,000,000.

A check up with insurance companies showed virtually none of the Hartford area was covered by flood insurance. This was true for much of the flood-swept east. The crest of the Ohio surged around Portsmouth and for more than a hundred miles downstream dozens of towns and villages were inundated. Hundreds of persons in Cincinnati, 110 miles down (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

ITALIANS AGAIN BOMB JIJIGA

ADDIS ABABA, March 23. (AP)—Italian planes bombed Jijiga, strategic city on the southern front, today. Ethiopian reports said, for the second time in as many days.

Considerable loss of life was reported from yesterday's air raid, the first aerial attack on Jijiga, in which 19 planes dropped hundreds of bombs. Reports reaching Harar, 50 miles west of Jijiga, said a Finnish Red Cross hospital at Jijiga was destroyed and one patient was killed and six wounded.

Kentucky Feudist Will Be Hanged

INDIANAPOLIS, March 23. (AP)—Some time between midnight tonight and dawn tomorrow George W. ## Red Cross Pleads for Flood Funds

"Need for relief funds in the flooded East is pressing, and I urge Santa Anans who plan to contribute to do so without further delay, as our local donations are running far behind the $1200 quota."

This appeal on behalf of the 200,000 homeless refugees in the flood-ravaged East was voiced today by Dr. John Wehrly, sr., chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

"We have received only $188.22 so far," he declared. "The full $1200 must be raised if we are to do our share in helping the victims of this great disaster."

Dr. Wehrly's appeal was seconded by Col. M. B. Wellington, vice chairman, and Harry Hansen, treasurer, who is receiving contributions at his office in the First National Bank.

Among the donations received are: $50 from Mrs. Harrison C. Mower, Balboa Island; $15, Newport Ebell club; $10, American Legion auxiliary; $5, Townsend club No. 5; and $5, Wilson P.-T. A.

Although the appeal by Dr. Wehrly related only to the local chapter, he urged also that residents in other sections of the county give freely to the branches in their own districts. The quota at Fullerton is $600, at Anaheim $500, and at Orange $300.

GUN EXPLODES S. A. MAN HURT

John Ysaia, 25, of 1812 West Third street, Santa Ana, is in the county hospital today, recovering from a bullet wound in his right side sustained late yesterday when a gun, assertedly in the hands of his brother-in-law, Leopold Saragosa, 1810 West Third street, Santa Ana, accidentally went off.

According to hospital reports, young Ysaia and his brother-in-law were in the hills east of Santa Ana hunting rabbits. The rifle which Mr. Saragosa was carrying went off prematurely. Hospital attaches said today Mr. Ysaia's condition is not serious.

WILL CONTEST STARTED HERE

Charging that his brother, the late Blaine Cox, Santa Ana, was not of sound mind and was under undue influence at the time he made his last will, R. B. Cox, Los Angeles, started proceedings in superior court today contesting the validity of the document.

The contest, opened by the late Justice J. B. Cox, of the Santa Ana justice court, left his entire estate of $3200 to his sister, Mary Cox Emerson, R. D. 4, Santa Ana. His brother was left $1.

The Los Angeles man is contesting that Cox was habitually under the influence of liquor for a long period preceding his death in the home of his sister on Dec. 8, 1935, and that his sister had encouraged him in the use of alcohol and had influenced him to make a will in her favor.

The contest opened this morning before Superior Judge G. K. Seovel. Mrs. Emerson is attempting to have the will, drawn Aug. 19, 1933, admitted to probate.

MORE ABOUT TOWNSEND

(Continued From Page One) In the event the same coldness is displayed by the Republicans as has been displayed by the Democrats, that a third party, composed exclusively of Townsend plan followers, will be formulated, with the avowed purpose of shelving both Democrat and Republican parties perpetually.

"He again reiterates emphatically that democracy is to be the watchword of the Townsend organizations. That the matter of party following in each and every congressional district is to be left to the discretion of the local board of congressional organizers and he expects that in these organizations both Democrat and Republican candidates will receive endorsement."

"His own political views will be expressed from time to time because those views are demanded by the Townsend organizations, but under no circumstances are those views to be interpreted as a command upon his followers."

SUICIDE ENDS WIFE-KILLER HUNT HERE

The search for Thomas E. Williams, who yesterday killed his wife and daughter near Corona, spread into Orange county yesterday. Sheriff's officers were on their way to the home of Williams' mother, Mrs. D. P. Williams of Huntington Beach, expecting he would go there, when radio news was received that Williams had killed himself.

Deputy Sheriffs Bob Steinberger and Claude Double went on to the mother's home, however. They also had the duty of informing her of the tragedy. She was nearly overcome with grief when she learned of the affair. Another son, Fred Williams, was at home with her when she learned the news.

Nine children were orphaned by the slaying and suicide.

Parr Trial Set Ahead to April 14

Allen.

In his first trial Parr was represented by Attorney J. B. Tucker. The state's case was handled by Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis.

27 KILLED IN REBEL RIOTS IN MEXICO

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press) MEXICO CITY, March 23.—At least 27 persons were killed and several score were wounded in various parts of Mexico, reports from the provinces said today, as discontent in rural districts flared over the week-end into open fighting.

Federal reinforcements were rushed to the town of Canacatlan, in the north central state of Durango, where press reports said officials stood off an attack by 40 rebels yesterday and killed seven of the insurgents.

10 Insurgents Killed
Dispatches from Durango said 10 insurgents of a force led by Federico Vazquez were killed by federal troops during a battle Saturday in the Taxicaringa mountains of that state.

A group of insurgents, believed to be enemies of the government's socialistic education program, terrorized the town of Paredones, in the state of Jalisco, Saturday night, and killed a schoolboy and a police official, dispatches reported.

Fire On Children
An old land dispute between residents of two neighboring towns near Tehuacan, Puebla, resulted in a two-hour fight yesterday in which eight persons were killed and about 20 wounded.

The insurgents who attacked Paredones were reported to have entered the village school and opened fire on the defenseless students, killing one and wounding several others.

MORE ABOUT FLOOD

stream, were deserting their homes. In Portsmouth, with the river at 59 feet, residents anxiously watched the top of the million dollar flood 60 foot high flood wall. The river washed the top of the wall, with sand bags piled two feet higher. The full crest of the Ohio at Portsmouth was not expected before late today.

Above Portsmouth, at Ashland, Ky., and Huntington, W. Va., the river was steadily leveling off.

On upstream, the river was back within its banks around Marietta and East Liverpool.

Guards Patrol Hartford
Although the recession of rivers continued steadily over New England, there were many elements of danger still present.

One thousand national guardsmen were on duty in Hartford, Conn., with debris and swamped by the Connecticut, to prevent looting and restore order. New military and police restrictions were imposed to keep persons from entering flooded business houses.

The river was falling rapidly and weather bureau officials said it would return to normal by tomorrow morning.

Over all the East, Red Cross and public health officials rushed supplies of vaccine to stricken communities. But the danger from contaminated water in most localities appeared to be passing hourly.

Dust Hits West
As the Ohio plunged downstream to meet the Mississippi at Cairo, the tributaries of the "Father of Waters" were rising in Minnesota. The Missouri river, likewise, was swelling rapidly. At Omaha, Neb., this rise was four feet in 24 hours.

Dust storms, ironically, swirled over parts of six Western states during the week-end.

Emphasizing the need for soil and flood control, legislators in Washington representing 12 severely-stricken states hurried into conference to plan relief work and prepare plans for flood control.

One long-range flood control program for the western Pennsylvania-West Virginia-Ohio area—the area of worst disaster and destruction—was sponsored by the tri-state authority in Pittsburgh. It would eventually cost an estimated $7,000,000,000 and would include an area of more than 200 towns in the three states.

For the direct relief and emergency reconstruction needs, seven of the devastated states were making appeals for funds approximating $60,000,000, mainly from the federal government, but some from states, municipalities and public relief agencies.

Already the federal government has allocated $43,000,000 to the WPA for relief and emergency reconstruction needs.

Red Cross Booms
On the basis of unofficial reports, the nation quickly was going "over the top" in raising the minimum of $2,000,000 asked by the American Red Cross for relief work.

Pennsylvania officials said that amount had been raised in this one state alone.

The Edicott-Johnson company, in flooded Binghamton, led the New York list of early contributors with $25,000.

Over the area of devastation, caution was taken to prevent further deaths. Officials warned against a too-hurried return to flooded weakened and damaged buildings. In Hartford, some weakened buildings were tagged with cards and residents forbidden to enter them.

HUNTER RITES WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Lawrence T. Hunter, 40, Santa Ana welder, who was found dead in his automobile at Chula Vista Friday, will be held from the Achison and Graham chapel, Riverside, at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with burial in Olivewood cemetery, Riverside.

Mr. Hunter was found in his car about three miles south of Chula Vista by a bee-keeper. San Diego county officials reported that tubing had been connected from the car's exhaust into the machine. The body was not discovered for about four days.

Mr. Hunter disappeared while on a business trip to San Diego. His wife, the former Thelma Wylie, member of a pioneer San Juan Capistrano family, reported the disappearance to police. The couple had been married but two months.

The Sidewalk Spectator:

To The Journal: I noticed the other day where someone on Fourth street had done a little painting, and had posted the usual "Fresh Paint" signs. Well, also as usual, there was a mad rush on by the wonder-if-it's-dry-yet-ers. Now, inasmuch as that curiosity impulse seems to be something we mortals cannot resist, it might be well for a law requiring a police officer be placed on duty at such points. Not that anyone could keep people from touching fresh paint, but to keep order and give everyone an equal chance.

Yours for the fresh paint "Inspectors."

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

POETRY! Here's some. But, before it's offered, we'd better do a little explaining.

The poem's by Herbert Hooper, instructor in Valencia High school in Placentia. He went fishing on a roughish sort of day and was overcome by action of the waves and spent most of the day stretched out on deck.

He went to sea with the guy who won't let us mention his name in our column, and who says if we do, no more boat trips. So, in the third line of the masterpiece, we've placed "Mr. Blank" in place of the owner's name. Hope Prof. Hooper doesn't mind the change. Also hope Frank Rospaw doesn't mind our snagging the poetry from his newspaper. Here's the poem:

I sailed the ocean blue
A thing that I should never do!
By 7 o'clock on Mr. Blank's boat,
I certainly needed that overcoat!
The sea looked calm, but felt very rough,
In the first half hour, I'd had enough.
Then Mr. Woolsey took the wheel,
The boat began to rock and reel;
My countenance turned very pale,
I draped my carcass on the rail.
With one fish hooked, Mr. Whitten led,
The others seemed to have been fed.
The morning dragged. All I could do
Was to stretch on deck my six-foot-two.
Next time the gang asks me to go,
I'll have some business in Idaho!

Canoe play a bass viol?
If so, here's your chance!
D. W. Kelsey, 40 South Artesia,
Santa Ana, comes into the office with a "swap" sd. He has a bass viol, but craves a canoe. He's looking for someone who has a canoe and craves a bass viol.

Columist Frank Rogers suggests that if he wants to fish his best bet would be to remove the strings from the viol and use it for his boat, taking the bow for a paddle. Take a bow yourself, Frank!

But, he wants a canoe without any strings on it.
If it's fishing he craves, couldn't he use his imagination about the bass part of his viol? Maybe, though, we ought to let Mr. Kelsey paddle his own canoe. Or peddle his own viol. (No children, not peddle like a bicycle. Peddle like vegetables. Or sacks, rags, bottles, bags!)

Since starting this business of being a clearing house for dogs, we've been in continual hot water. Now we have another cry for aid.

Mrs. Genevieve Fording, Garden Grove, writes that she has a five-room house for rent in Anaheim, and to do we know anyone who'd like to rent it? (Adv.)

The answer is "No."
Wait a minute! We scanned her writing again and now can't decide whether she wants to rent the house for herself, or wants to rent one to someone else.

Here—your worry about it. She says "If you run across anyone real nice who would like to rent a small five-room house in Anaheim, please tell them to get in touch with me."

We don't know anyone who wants to rent a house. But we do know where one can get a very fine dog. A white dog, with assorted black spots. If anyone wants a white dog with assorted black spots, walk, don't run, to The Journal office and tell us about it! As a premium for this week's bargain, we're offering a can of dog food with every dog we give away!

Speaking of hot water, we're in it again!
"Scotty" Muir, Placentia, former Olympic high-diving champion, was given a helping hand through this publication the other day. We explained to his boss that Scotty's tips on the best ocean fishing grounds were correct.

Saturday Scotty called us on the phone. Said he was going to sue us for $100,000, or maybe it was a million, we've forgotten, but he didn't have a paper for evidence. If we'd bring him a paper, he'd split the profits on the deal with us, he said.

Teh, teh! All the time we thought he was a subscriber! When we took him the paper, we were going to hint something about signing up for a year or so, but he was so worried about the peculiarities of yellowtail and barracuda that we didn't have the heart to broach the subject. Maybe he'll take the hint, anyway!

Heisler Point, Weather Man, Swallows, Swifts, Featured in Coastlines

By McDONALD WHITE

Dominant note of interest in Laguna at the moment is the proposed Laguna Riviera hotel, to be constructed on Heisler Point some time next fall.

The two principals of this drama are H. G. Heisler and Alfred Violette. Mr. Heisler has owned extensive property interests in Laguna, and lived in the community, for 31 years. He has owned this point for that many years. A few years ago he sold a portion of the natural promontory to the Art association, where the art gallery now stands. Last week he sold the remainder of the point to Alfred Violette and the Laguna-Riviera Hotel company.

That sale marked an epoch in Laguna history. It terminated the years-old controversy; whether Heisler Point would be sold or ultimately become a city park.

As far as the good of the community is concerned Mr. Heisler's decision to sell was sound from many angles. It would have made a beautiful park, but Laguna does not need any more parks; the whole coastline is a park, and should remain so. Another fine hotel will bring tourists to Laguna to buy the wares of the local artists and what have you. A town without industry must depend upon transients to survive. So "Heisler Point" has finally—after a few million years—gone definitely commercial.

Now for Alfred Violette. We haven't forgotten about him. His dreamy, abstract expression first catches your eye. You get the impression that he always lets the other fellow make the first move. And then you know that behind those piercing, dark eyes, softened only by the mildness of his features, is a mind of considerable vision.

A curious combination of drive and power mellowed by the thoughtful appearance of a pipe dangling from his lips. A professed promoter, Mr. Violette knows no boundaries for his activities.

After establishing his family in Laguna, Mr. Violette began to look around. And, apparently, Heisler Point wasn't so close to his nose that he couldn't see it, which is significant. But it was not until last fall that the dream of a fine big hotel on that property began to take shape.

First securing an option from Mr. Heisler, he went to New York, interested Eastern capital, and the newly formed Laguna-Riviera Hotel Company, Inc., is the result.

More about people. Schuyler R. Voorhees, U. S. weather bureau observer. Always amazed to see him driving around town. Especially when his wife is with him, because she must share the eternal vigilance of this job. And when both of them are away, what happens to our local weather? Once every hour, 24 hours a day, Mr. Voorhees must be seated before his teletype machine awaiting his turn to flash out the local weather report. After Oceanside comes Laguna. If he misses he has a few seconds at the end of each string of coast reports. If he should miss even that one—well, headquarters would promptly demand an explanation. And it has to be a good one, he says. Talk about a routine job, that one takes all prizes. Never can he

Three Dances Held in Orange

ORANGE.—Queen Sabe dancing club members held their March dance at the Woman's clubhouse Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Theron Willis, Santa Ana, in charge.

The American Legion sponsored a dance at the Legion hall, dancers enjoying both modern and old-fashioned dances.

The sophomore class of the high school gave a dance in the school gymnasium, the first to be given by that class. Andy Quinn, president of the class, acted as master of ceremonies and was chairman of the dance committee, which included Norma Craft, Bernice Williams, Byron Deming, Maxine Watson and Betty Gross. Max Moore was in charge of decorations.

It was more curious than they knew. Aunt Ella insisted on "contact with society," "ease of manner. There were various teas and suppers to which she went with her aunt; Mrs. Cadwallader's ancient house, Mrs. Deborah Wayne's, Mrs. Josiah Worrell's. It never struck Aunt Ella that these might not amuse Iris as much as they did herself. It occurred to only one person—Uncle William.

He it was who planned Iris's small escapes, who, in spite of Ella's firm hold on all money for the use of Lawrence, Iris's father, squeezed tiny sums out now and again to buy Iris a length of silk for a dress, or a pair of rayon stockings.

He hadn't been able to do much of late. Miss Ella was more stringent than ever; she was talking about a memorial for her dead brother.

"Oh, well, maybe I can find something in one of the trunks of old clothes in the garret to let down this dress with." Iris thought as she swung along in the dusk with her armful of "golden rain."

She began to daydream again; perhaps somebody would be at Kay's when she sang her old

Golden Rain

by Margaret Widdemer
SYNOPSIS: Most unexpectedly, Morgan Black has become very much interested in Iris Lanning, with her precise speech and her old-fashioned clothes. When he finally learns that she is the niece of the Ella Lanning who will, he hopes, take him for a boarder, he is bewitched by her position as the daughter of poverty-stricken aristocrats and she can do it to make parties go with her "parlor tricks."

She began to sing as she came up the neglected old drive, under the old-fashioned portico. She had lingered so long that a half hour had passed; it was quite dark. She was singing one of the songs she would do at Kay's. It was a song of an older day, a funny old thing of the seventies that had been a show-piece of her grandmother's.

Chapter Three
SURPRISE
But Iris's "parlor tricks" were better than she knew. Miss Ella had unweariedly passed to her niece everything that in her own more accomplished and literate age money could buy or art suggest for the brilliant young Ella Lanning, who had intended to be a singer.

Just as sure as it is half past eight
Someone's tapping at the garden gate.
It was her signal to Uncle William. She knocked on the big front door.

"Let me in, let me in, Uncle William! I haven't any free hands!"

Her uncle's slow foot and tapping crutch told down the unseen hall, and a gaslight awakened. She came through the open door, laughing, and stood above her bright-colored load.

"Oh, I'm late," she said, "but you can't think how heavy young trees are! And I met a young man—oh!"

She stopped. She colored all over her so that it felt like a fire. There, towering easily behind her uncle's stooped back, shoulder, stood the man to whom, supposing she would never see him again, she had told more of her affairs than she ever had told anyone in her life before.

"This," said Uncle William's mild, slightly disapproving voice, "is Mr. Black. He is going to board with us, darling. This is my niece, Iris, Mr. Black."

"I've met Mr. Black," said Iris in a choked furious voice. "I—Oh, you hadn't any right to!"

The bright load of blossoms crashed at the feet of the two astonished men; Iris was gone, flying up the steep old stairs.

"Dear me," said mild shabby courteous Uncle William. "I must apologize for my niece's excitement. It isn't at all like her."

"Black internally! About he replied politely. 'I suppose she was startled at seeing a stranger.'"

"She is a very brilliant girl, and it is possible she is becoming a trifle temperamental," said her uncle, as if this idea were new. "She has never behaved like that before."

Morgan Black smiled instead of replying; which pleased Uncle William. Since Aunt Ella had decreed the taking of a boarder, this silent young man was better than most.

Iris, meanwhile, had taken cover in her bedroom. It was large, like all the rooms. It had an old-fashioned brass bed, hideous but comfortable, with a mended white homeycomb counterpane.

A handsome overelaborate mahogany bureau of the late seventies, with the rocker and marbled-topped table which belonged to it and a dejected golden-rod morris chair which didn't stand out against all Iris's inexpensive efforts toward modernity.

Sometimes she was proud of what she had done with the unpromising place; sometimes, as now, she hated it.

Tomorrow, Morgan and Iris have their first meal together.

VAN ZANDT'S TALK TO BE BROADCAST

James E. Van Zandt, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will address Orange county members of the various V. F. W. posts and citizens of the county in a special broadcast from KVOE tomorrow, beginning at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Calling All Cars"

The chief of police of the City of Santa Ana was literally booted into the street, knocked unconscious and given a ride in his own "Black Maria." But he captured his unorthodox hosts after some clever acting and strategy involving considerable danger to his own life and that of his aide, Officer Holman.

This true story will be re-enacted in full detail in tonight's broadcast of "Calling All Cars" from KVOE at 7:30 o'clock tonight, telling how a gang of hoodlums were captured by Chief Kane of San Rafael, proving himself a sleuth of the first order.

Taking for his topic the question, "What is in the Dictionary?" Ralph C. Smedley, instructor in chairmanship in the adult education department, Santa Ana city schools, will demonstrate the use of the dictionary in his broadcast from KVOE this evening at 5:30 o'clock. He will ask his listeners to have their dictionaries by their radios and to compare various pronunciations, markings, etc., that are given.

Dr. Baker on Program

Tomorrow evening at the same hour, Dr. Margaret Baker, a member of the Santa Ana board of education, will be the guest of Mrs. Golden Weston on her broadcast and will discuss the national superintendent's conference held recently, and which she attended. The orchestra will feature the popular hit of several seasons ago, "Variety Drag," and the light classic, "Rondo," by Mozart.

MUSSOLINI, PREDICTING WAR, ABOLISHES PRIVATE INDUSTRY

PUTS END TO CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

Substitutes Council of Guilds; Puts Ban on War-Time Profits

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)
ROME, March 23.—Premier Mussolini, predicting the coming of a new war, abolished the chamber of deputies and all large private industries in Italy today.

For the chamber of deputies he substituted a council of guilds, known as the "chamber of Fascists and corporations."

He left only medium and small private industries intact, and said of large private industries: "We are going toward the period in which these industries will have to labor exclusively, or almost so, for the armed forces of the nation."

Bans War Profits
In further explanation of his drastic move on industries, the Italian premier declared it was inconceivable that profits should be made from the manufacture of war materials.

Mussolini executed his broad stroke on the 17th anniversary of the founding of his Fascist party, after concluding conferences with the government leaders of Austria and Hungary, and calling the grand assembly of corporations into session.

He discarded the chamber of deputies in favor of a council of guilds, and eliminated Italy's large private industries in a move to increase the nation's economic self-sufficiency, he declared, in preparation for a possible European war.

Predicts War
"When and how war will come, one does not know," he told the national council of the 22 guilds of the corporate state, "but the wheel of fate turns fast."

The national council of guilds, which replaced the chamber of deputies, is composed of 22 productive, credit, transport, agricultural and professional corporations or categories of guilds.

Mussolini asserted the large industries, particularly those working for the defense of the nation, would be formed into organizations called "key industries."

Government Control
These, he said, "will be run directly or indirectly by the government. Some will have mixed organization."

"These industries, owing to their characters, volume and importance for war, leave the field of private economy and enter into

Guide Posts Through Maze of State Income Tax Given by Agent at Local Office

M. L. Pierovich, in charge of the state income tax office here, today posted a few guide posts for those who are trying to find their way through the mazes of filing state income tax returns. By following these signs, citizens of Orange county may find the trail a little easier; but if they still feel lost, Mr. Pierovich will explain in more detail at the office, 308 West Fifth street.

Mr. Pierovich will explain in more detail at the office, 308 West Fifth street. The main difference is that the federal tax law gives a 10 per cent earned income credit, while the state law does not. The federal government does not tax individuals' income from stocks on domestic corporations. The state law makes no such exemption.

Exemptions on Dependents
Exemptions for dependents are important, too. A dependent, under the law, is a child less than 18 years of age, or an adult who is incapable of self support because of mental or physical defects. Exemptions can be claimed only by the person who is the chief support of the family. The exemption allowed is $400 for each dependent.

The chief support of a family, or the head of the family, is the person who actually maintains or supports a household for one or more individuals who are wholly dependent on him by blood relationship, by marriage or adoption, and in filing state returns, only one form is required, whereas in the federal tax returns a duplicate is necessary.

If the return is a joint return of husband and wife, only one party, or his agent, is required to sign. Returns can be notarized in the local income tax office without charge.

whose right to exercise control over these dependents is based on fields of state economy," Mr. Duce proclaimed.

Concerning sanctions being applied by the League of Nations as punishment for Italy's war in Ethiopia, Mussolini said:

"The siege, now in its fifth month, will never bend Italy. Only opaque ignorance could have brought a thought otherwise."

He warned his hearers Italy would not last Nov. 17—the day before sanctions were imposed.

upon some moral or legal obligation.

Every partnership must make an information return, but a tax is not paid on partnership income. The partners, however, pay individual income taxes on their personal income, provided it is large enough after exemptions have been figured in.

The state income tax is similar in many ways to the federal tax. The main difference is that the federal tax law gives a 10 per cent earned income credit, while the state law does not. The federal government does not tax individuals' income from stocks on domestic corporations. The state law makes no such exemption.

Federal employees are exempt from state tax when they are engaged in the exercise of proper governmental functions. If the government engages in non-governmental functions, employees in such cases are not exempt from the state income tax law.

Rate Schedule
The rate of tax is 1 per cent on net incomes up to $5000. The rate is graduated up to 15 per cent on any income in excess of $250,000.

Following is the rate schedule on net incomes: 1 per cent on net incomes up to $5000; 2 per cent on net incomes in excess of $5000 and not in excess of $10,000; 3 per cent on net incomes in excess of $10,000 and not in excess of $15,000; # Scripps College Friends Mingle at Tea Given to Honor Miss Katherine Barr

Fullerton Is Setting For Affair

Gifts of Pretty Linens Showered on Honoree, Soon to Be Married

Happy days on the Scripps college campus were revived conversationally by the group of young women bidden by Miss Margaret Sears to her home in Fullerton Saturday afternoon for a tea and linen shower in honor of Miss Katherine Barr of Santa Ana. Miss Barr is to be married April 11 to Dr. Wilbur Atherton of Los Angeles.

Early in the afternoon the guests read personal notes written to Miss Barr by various of the invited guests who formerly attended Scripps and now are scattered far and wide through the United States. The shower gifts then were unwrapped and displayed.

Miss Sears had arranged a charming modern centerpiece of white iris floated in a silver bowl for her all-white tea table. Slender white tapers were held in silver bases and a very wide band of tulle ribbon went across the attractive table.

Mrs. Crawford Nalle (Florence Brownridge), Miss Betty Garro-way and Miss Barr were present from Santa Ana, and other guests were bidden from Pasadena, San Diego and other Southland cities.

Anne Ulseth, ninth grade pupil at Lathrop Junior High school, placed first in her division by writing an essay entitled "Duties of American Citizenship." Second place went to Carol J. McCollum, in the same class.

Dorothy Ladd, Lathrop eighth-grader, wrote "What Constitutes Good American Citizenship," thereby placing first in her division. Milton Danielson, also in the eighth grade at Lathrop Junior High, rated next highest.

At McKinley school, Ethel Ann Williams, in the fifth grade, won first award with her essay about "The Flag of Our Country." Next highest was Amelia Rodriguez, Delhi school pupil.

The essays, submitted from all schools in the city, were read and judged by Charles Swanner, Santa Ana attorney, Miss Lella Watson, head of the junior college foreign language department, and Thomas H. Glenn, junior college, English department head.

Copies of the three winning essays have been entered in district competition by Miss Magill. Should they receive awards in this contest, they will be forwarded to compete for state prizes.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women

Do you object to your favorite motion picture star being married—does it detract from their glamor for you?

Mrs. Allen A. Mandy: Not for me. But I always wonder why motion picture stars marry motion picture stars, when both are very temperamental. I don't like to have them always airing their marital squabbles in the press. It seems to me better to marry outside the profession and have a larger chance of being happy.

Mrs. E. C. Overton: No, it doesn't enter into my enjoyment of them. It's a question with me of their ability to act well. I shouldn't think being married would matter any, and having a family is the happiest thing in the world.

Mary Stoddard Men Acclaim "Miss Inhuman" for Doubting Male Interest in Girl Social Drinker

By MARY STODDARD Directing her question at men readers, "Miss Inhuman" asked: "Does a girl have to drink, and drink plenty, to get anywhere?"

And the men are pouring in answers, so far commending the home seeking girl for not wanting to be a beer parlor habitue in order to attract men. Not so old-fashioned is he who writes:

So, Miss Inhuman, you are trying to find a satisfactory middle road in the drinking world. There is none. Even the moderate drinker, especially the young, takes the very real chance of destroying the worthwhile aims and ambitions of life.

We say to our children, "Don't play with fire," then keep away from the very real danger of the society of inhabitants of questionable places.

The old sayings, "We find our level," "Seek and ye shall find," are true, but seek in the right places and society.

The fine and decent people are far in the majority, but you will not find them in the company of frivolous pleasure seekers. You ask: "Do men prefer the beer parlor type of girl?" No. The average man in his innermost mind has small respect for this type of girl or woman—in spite of the fact that some seem to choose their company for temporary amusement and in spite of so-called advancement and modern changes men still in their hearts honor and cherish a very high ideal of woman. So, Miss Inhuman, seek a new circle of friends who have similar ideals and hopes to your own. Sincerely,

OLD-FASHIONED JOE.

Experience speaks to her through another letter.

Miss Inhuman: I would say a girl who drinks and drinks plenty and becomes a feminine "barfly" would have very little of the respect of a man of the right sort, and it's better to have nothing to do with one of that type than to regret the rest of your life.

You are not out of date. You are more than up to date. A man of the right sort respects one of your kind, so don't give up hopes, for you will find a home and happiness yet and still not have to drink to be a good sport.

FARM STOCKS LEAD WALL ST. GAIN

Industrial Specialties Pace Quiet Advance; J. I. Case Spurts

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, March 23. (AP)—Industrial specialties led a quiet rally in today's stock market, with shares of J. I. Case getting up 8 points and general gains ranging from fractions to 2 or so.

Selective buying demand made its appearance despite the still serious flood situation and news from abroad that was not entirely optimistic.

Among the principal advances near the start of the fourth hour were those of Deere, International Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor, Montgomery Ward, Sears, Roebuck, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, Chrysler, Bethlehem, Universal Pipe, International Cement, Penn-Dixie Cement, Western Union, North American, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, Amalgamated Copper, and General Electric.

Case ran up on a comparatively small turnover and brokers spoke of being trapped in this issue. But the firm's stock was not overvalued. There were expectations of improved agricultural purchasing power over the remainder of the year.

With Mussolini predicting the coming of a new war and, at the same time, abolishing the Italian chamber of deputies and nationalizing all large private industries in the country, Wall street again cast its eyes toward Europe.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, March 23. (AP)—Stocks stepped forward slowly but persistently today. While gains ranged from fractions to around a point for the majority, there were a few wide advances.

There was some late profit-taking, but the close was firm. Transfers approximated 1,700,000 shares. Closing prices:

EXILED GERMANS IN HOMING FLIGHT FROM ANTI-NAZIS

BERLIN, March 23. (AP)—Bitter anti-German feeling abroad is causing hundreds of expatriated Germans to hit the trail back home.

So many have come in recent months that the foreign division of the national socialist party has set up an office to aid them while they are getting settled again in the fatherland.

This movement, which offsets in a small way the emigration from the reich of Jews and "political undesirables," is chiefly of Germans from South America, France, Belgium and Russia. They are merchants, laborers, engineers, domestic servants and school teachers.

"Existence," they say, "was either completely cut off through anti-German propaganda or else progress was made impossible."

Four hundred of them assembled recently in Berlin. The nazi party is helping them to find jobs and entertainments are being staged to divert their minds.

"We want to show these Germans," say party leaders, "that our idea of aid to all needy Germans extends over the whole world."

By VERA RAMSEY

"What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God." This Bible verse is the theme of "Walk Humbly" by Barbara B. Stevens.

As the title indicates, this is the story of simple people. The picture of West Waterford, a small Vermont town, is drawn with an unusual degree of fairness and balance. The author neither despises nor idealizes the little town and its inhabitants, but sees their virtues as well as their shortcomings. It is in the main a woman's story. We are told of Drusilla's struggle to fit her ideals into a harassed existence as the wife of a country doctor. The story of her tribulations and triumphant faith tell the story of many women who live out their lives in the small towns of America.

The distinctive quality of the book comes from Mrs. Stevens' knowledge of the locality and its people. This she has been able to universalize until this section and its inhabitants stand for a cross section of life as a whole.

There have been, at various times in history, great bands of people moving from one locality to another. Eugene De Kahl tells of one of these in "Far Enough." This is the saga of the great trek of the South African Dutch. These Boer farmers had settled and established flourishing communities at Capetown. They were not allowed, however, to live out their lives in peace. The rich farms and fine settlements tempted the English to the extent of attempts to annex the land. The Dutch were an independent people, who resented such encroachments on their freedom. The trouble between the two caused the Boers to trek farther and farther into the Transvaal country. They traveled ever farther northward, trying to find a free land where they could have their own government.

There is adventure and color in the tale of the great trek. Always the English followed, trying to annex the land as the Dutch developed it. The parallel is drawn between this trek and the flight of the Israelites in the Bible. Many of the places they passed were named by the Dutch from the Old Testament.

The picture of the Dutch people and their customs are very carefully drawn. They were very religious and at the same time they were practical enough in material things to make good farmers. They were brave and hardy in the face of the many troubles that accompanied their settlement. The novel tells of this great historic event in a way that makes the reader understand better the difficulties between the Dutch and the English in Africa.

RIVER ROBS FARMS DAILY OF 8,000,000 TONS OF SOIL

KANSAS CITY, March 23. (AP)—Eight million tons of fertile top soil from northwestern farm lands are carried away daily by the muddy Missouri river as it rolls along to the Gulf.

This, says Dr. Lorenz G. Straub, University of Minnesota hydraulics professor, who has been measuring the silt carried by Kansas City, is as much as could be hauled by a continuous train of box cars racing at 60 miles an hour.

Quoting a Biblical verse, "They shall take up serpents," Rev. George Hensley, evangelist preacher, wrestled with a four-foot diamond-back rattlesnake at a religious gathering in Bloomingdale, Fla. He said it was to test his faith. Meanwhile his followers shook, prayed and shouted with emotion. Note the boy in center background biting his fingernails.

YOU PAY FOR HIS SAND WITH GOLD FOUND IN IT

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 23. (AP)—When contractors on the Hetch Hetchy water project needed a certain type of sand drain for a dam and concrete conduit they found it on the ranch of John Munn.

He usually plants 60 acres of spring wheat; 15 acres of rye; 10 acres of oats and the remainder in pasture of some form.

His "soil depleting base acreage" would be those acres usually planted to wheat, rye and oats, a total of 85 acres.

CALIFORNIA BUSINESS FOR FEBRUARY INCREASES

Bank of America's business index for February moved ahead of January levels and gained more than 12 per cent over February of 1935, according to the current issue of the bank's business review.

The review of California business shows that building and construction showed the outstanding gain of the month, with the state's building permits mounting 6 per cent higher than in February last year, and increasing almost 6 per cent from the showing of January of this year.

Indicating a healthy increase in business velocity, bank debits in February gained more than 28 per cent over the like month of 1935. February retail sales gained more than 14 per cent over February, 1935. Carloadings gained in about the same proportion as retail sales, with a 14.2 per cent improvement over February a year ago.

Employment in the state's manufacturing industries gained 2.4 per cent over February of 1935, while payrolls increased 6 1/2 per cent over the second month last year. California's encouraging increase in cash income for farm crops last year was augmented by an even greater increase in return from the sale of live stock and live stock products, which accounts for more than 30 per cent of the state's agricultural income.

Excluding benefit payments, California's cash receipts from sales of live stock and its products last year amounted to $191,585,000, an increase of $43,439,000, or 29 per cent over 1934. Last year's showing was 43 per cent greater than 1933 and 36 per cent above 1932.

Here's an Example of How New Farm Program Works

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—A specific example of how the new soil conservation farm program would operate on one farm was outlined today by John B. Hutton, an AAA regional director.

The example follows: Mid-Western farmer owns 100 acres.

He usually plants 60 acres of spring wheat; 15 acres of rye; 10 acres of oats and the remainder in pasture of some form.

His "soil depleting base acreage" would be those acres usually planted to wheat, rye and oats, a total of 85 acres.

The AAA says, except in the case of cotton, tobacco, peanuts, sugar and beets, sugar cane, flax and rice, that a farmer may not receive subsidy payment for shifting more than 15 per cent of his

"soil depleting" base to "soil conserving" crops.

Fifteen per cent of 85 acres would be 12 acres.

The farmer might elect to shift 12 acres of wheat land to a soil conserving crop. (His rye crop already be planted at this time.)

Supposing that the farmer had average yields, he would receive about $10 an acre for shifting each acre of wheat land to a soil conserving crop.

This would amount to $120.

In addition, he might receive as much as $1 an acre for planting the 12 acres in a soil conserving crop.

This would raise his payment to $132.

Finally, if the farmer plowed under his rye to improve the soil, he might receive as much as $1

25 AUTOISTS CITED HERE

California Highway Patrol officers were out in full force over the week-end, issuing over 25 citations for traffic violations.

Charges of speeding held the top of the list, with 11 citations issued. Failure to make boulevard stops was second, with six offenders being cited to appear in court. Three drivers were cited for passing automobiles on the wrong side, and four persons were arrested on charges of drunk driving. Other violations were for minor infractions of the vehicle code.

Captain Henry C. Meehan, head of the Orange county branch of the highway patrol, said today he had issued orders to increase highway patrol activities. This action was taken in preparation for the summer influx of traffic on Orange county highways. The arrests made this week-end are a result of the increased activities of the patrol, he said, and it is expected that more intensive patrolling of state highways through the county will be made as the summer season approaches.

Challenge to a Rich County

IN THIS money-minded age, it is interesting to read that Orange county is the richest per capita in the United States. A Santa Ana civic official and banker have calculated that there is an average of $3,105 for every man, woman, and child in the county.

It is a fine thing for a community to be rich. It indicates that something of service is being given to the world. In Orange county the agricultural output of $30,000,000 a year and the manufacturing volume of $20,000,000 annually tell the story.

There is no danger, however, of these riches blinding us to the fact that Orange county, like the rest of the nation, still has a long way to go.

Total wealth in this county may average $3,105 per capita—but there are still families here who are disintegrating through poverty and fear. Every day that passes sees a line of despairing men, women, and children at the relief agencies in search of a little government work, a grocery order, or a place to sleep.

The relief appropriations are not the whole answer. These emergency cases must be cared for, to be sure, but WPA and dole and local charity cannot rebuild the shattered morale of family groups. This is a challenge to the best minds in the entire county, and to the resources, both mental and financial, of the nation as a whole as well as of rich Orange county.

Most of the wealth in Orange county is wisely employed creating an abundance of good things for others. It would be a fine thing if a portion of that wealth which is not so engaged could be put to work meeting the challenge of poverty—and furthering real progress toward a greater, happier nation.

The Truth About War

WAR is no laughing matter, but Congressman Maury Maverick, of Texas, is having a hard time making his House colleagues believe that he isn't fooling about his novel plan to eliminate the glamour from war.

In that refusal to take the Texan seriously is a tragic example of the average congressman's intellect.

The brutal reality of war must be accepted, Maverick believes, if there is to be peace. If children must be trained to slaughter other children, then, he says in his proposed legislation, we must take "sex appeal and false glory, the emotional by-products of militarism, from military training."

Maverick would stop the use of pretty girls as "sponsors" or honorary officers of cadet corps. He would prohibit participation by these auxiliaries from any drills or military ceremonies.

Best of all, he would force embryo soldiers in the ROTC to read a list of books which tell something of war's horrors. Required reading would include Crane's "The Red Badge of Courage," Zweig's "The Case of Sergeant Grischka," Dos Passos's "Three Soldiers," Millis' "The Road to War" and "The Martial Spirit," Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front," and Stalling's stark picture book, "The First World War." Another book he could have included is Humphrey Cobb's "Paths of Glory."

It won't be so funny to those members of the house military affairs committee who think Maverick is joking, if the next war comes while they're still slapping their sides. In the next one there won't be so many congressmen, or generals either, who will die in bed.

Reader chides us for running two squibs in Saturday's editorial column about flapping ears. And doubles the insult by remarking that both were lousy.

Payment for Neglect

THE DRAMATIC spectacle of disastrous flood in the east and dust storms in the midwest should be a lesson to us that Nature is indeed angry with western civilization for its past neglect of soil conservation.

Although the eastern inundations, which have taken such a toll of life and property, are directly traceable to a great storm which hovered over the headwaters of the Potomac and Ohio, the fact cannot be denied that destruction of the topsoil in many of the eastern states was a contributing factor.

In many of the oldest agricultural states, there are great areas where the old top layer of soil is gone. Careless farming methods have allowed it to wash away during the past two or three centuries. It is this dark, spongy layer of soil that keeps the water where it falls and stops it from rushing downstream to swell spring freshets.

Dust storms, too, are not simply matters of drought, but of destruction of the topsoil that binds the loose dust of the semi-arid western plains.

Fortunately Uncle Sam is awake to the danger. The soil conservation project at El Toro is an example of work which is going on all over the United States in an effort to repair the neglect of past years. Only by proper land management can we prevent increasingly disastrous floods and dust storms.

Good Government Needs You

BY THE time you read this editorial there will be only three days left in which to register for the important presidential primary elections. The deadline is March 26.

If this government is to remain a government by the people, the people must exercise the ballot on all important public measures. The United States owes its position among nations of the world today to the great principle of popular representation and administration. If you have not registered, do so before March 27 and retain the full privileges of citizenship.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

In the manner of Arnold Bennett's journal: M and I were recalling at breakfast a dessert that tickled our palates more than any other. A thin-crust chocolate pie served with a scoop of creme fraiche cheese out of a brown jar of Provence.

The waiter said it was a favorite of Abbe Dimmet. Gourmets say all dimmets should be held back 20 minutes to be appreciated. Apple pie, Karl Kitchen used to contend, should always be open faced, cinnamon sprinkled and served with a cool glass of milk in a tumbler of deep blue.

I read last night that wood-smoke invariably has olfactory significance for those born in the outland. Inspiring memories of childhood. The smell of burning leaves should be included. I finished an article I've been dithering with for eight months, yesterday. Like having an aching tooth out. Some feature writer might do something with the shrinkage of the big art galleries on this avenue. Most of them now just tiny salons lost in side streets. Two visitors today I would not have missed for a speckled pup: Floyd Gibbons and Bob Davis. Each is a mine of copy.

Some notations recently about summer: See rural Virginia in April. Nowhere to study crowds like Coney Island on Saturday night. Make an over night river pilgrimage on one of those side-wheelers. I think it was Zoe Beckley who said she could not resist a book or play with a street address title. Such as: No. 24 Court street, 2 Hanover Square, etc., etc. I find I cannot pass up titles with the word "Temple." Best play title: Waterloo Bridge. It suggested every emotion. Another good one for a musical revue: Coward's This Year of Grace.

No performer is so constantly in rehearsal as the magician. Nate Leipsig, for instance. Any time any place one meets him he is flexing his fingers with a coin. He can make it fairly race around his hand, like something alive. Ditto Houdini. On sleeping jumps Houdini took along volumes from his vast magic library. The illusionist is interested in nothing save his art. None has a hobby. The miss who attends my slight secretarial work has a pretty sounding name—Anne Parenteau. Also a mellifluous voice. I've never seen her although she has been at the syndicate several years. So far, too, we have never had a difference.

An American I know in Copenhagen was appointed to an important export job in his adopted city. His employer was a New Yorker he had never seen. For four years they got along swimmingly. Then they met in Sweden for two weeks of fishing. P. S. He lost his job. Circling the park I felt a wince in the once gay Casino taking on the haunted house look—dark and shuttered. An exciting after-theater place when Jimmy Walker was on the uptown and Grover Whalen the metropolitan duke.

It is interesting to me that Rev. Ray Long, Jr., is showing artistic talents of his father. From his boarding school he sends graphic letters to his mother illustrated with a knack. He has also written several plays that for a 12-year-old show surpassing sense of situations and dramatic suspense. I 12 I wanted to be a ferryboat pilot, riding back and forth all day. At 14, incidentally, I proposed to M. And got what in those days was called "the mitten." Later it was called "the sack." Today it is the air.

An interesting correspondent in Scotland is of the McIntyre clan—Geoffrey, a cousin far removed. He had seen a sketch of mine in Nash's in London some years ago. And wrote. Naturally he's a golfer. Pipe smoker and devourer of haggis. His home is a short spin from Glasgow. His great uncle remembers my grandfather. "Tall, thinish, cour," he described him, "with shaggy eyebrows and intent on going to America to hit it rich." He came and was on his way to modest wealth—and along came the Nebraska grasshopper blight.

In every de luxe cafe against the wall is always a blue-collared swarthy with hair on brose—and a chattering lady he ignores. She bubbles. He shoots his cuff. She coos. He flicks imaginary fluff from his sleeve. Always bored. One of the Broadway take all and give nothing lads playing George Raft. In the 300's on Park avenue lives a friend in a splendor of modernity. Yet on cold nights he has a hot brick in his bed. Grandma's plan was swell. On freezing days she started us off to school with a hot baked potato in each overcoat pocket.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Why Watch the Saints and Ignore the Sinners

SENATORIAL investigations like charity, should begin at home. Maybe there should be a committee to investigate the investigators. Perhaps every senator should pass a rigid test on the constitution. They should be properly impressed with the fundamental lesson that constitutional rights still stand as bulwark between them and their intended victims. Maybe, too, there should be a moratorium on this whole matter of investigation. Instead of prying into all the ramifications of lobbying why not elect legislators who can not be bought, scared or influenced by predatory interests?

In public life, as everywhere, the supreme necessary quality is character. Not brilliance, nor personality, nor influential ties, nor even ability is nearly so important as genuine character, rugged honesty and a fearless soul. If senators were above temptation no lobbyists could touch them. If predatory interests could assure themselves that law-makers were above reproach they would not haunt the legislative chambers. The very fact that congress keeps continually prying into the lobbying question is an admission that congressmen wink their eyes at those who would steal their "honor," and something more substantial.

Publisher Hearst invokes the fourth amendment to the constitution against the senate committee. He says the old bill of rights guarantees the telegrams from seizure. Privacy was not so sacred when young Hearst in 1898, by devious means, got hold of a private letter written by the Spanish minister. The publication of this "insulting" letter whipped the people into a frenzy of excitement, ushering in the Spanish-American war.

One wonders why congressional committees pry into movements making for social betterment but pass lightly by those agencies and interests which such movements intend to be. In prohibition days every attempt was made to ridicule and "investigate" the dry forces, but who ever heard of a thorough investigation of the liquor traffic? In the old slavery days the abolitionists were always being "investigated," but the hideous slave traffic was not questioned.

Now the Townsend movement is to be "investigated." Fifty thousand dollars will be thrown away on more sight-of-hand performances. No attempt will be made to study the merits of the plan. Nothing to show that it offers the one sane escape from economic collapse. The "investigators" will do everything possible to discredit the movement and everyone connected with it.

"Truth forever on the scaffold wrong forever on the throne."

Santa Ana boulevard observations: Gravel trucks, gasoline tanks, laundry cars, Grayhound bus, highway freight lines, glass trucks, moving vans, luxurious sedans, stripped down Fords, tourists, and the put, putt of the highway patrol. One lone, gray haired pedestrian, but the buttoniere of wild flowers on the lapel of an old tattered coat indicated he was a lover of nature. The observation suggested that the railroads had plenty of competition. The gasoline companies millions of customers, and pedestrians have a tough time dodging cars.

A division of wealth is not a solution for our economic problem. The employment of wealth might be a much better answer.

There is one way of keeping me away from a Democratic round-up other than party affiliation. Make the entrance fee $5 and I won't be there, and a Republican hullabaloo wouldn't tempt me unless it was accompanied by a pre-paid ticket.

Anyway, the Democrats won't have the trouble the Republicans will have selecting a candidate. That matter has been settled.

Frank West left his law office Saturday forenoon in charge of the stenographer, while he went stepping out with a young lady who intends to make her home at the West domicile for sometime. It isn't a domestic complication, as the visitor has been expected for sometime. But when the first horn arrives it's an event calculated to make a father forget business, and it may be several days before Frank gets back to the office. When he does I'll listen to his stories about the progress the baby is making. I'm sympathetic, an old veteran, and I've listened before. Anyway, here's luck to the bud which will in time develop into lovely womanhood.

The Good Book says the wicked fleeeth when no man pursueth, but he makes better time when someone is after him.

Every person on a certain amateur program is eligible for the gong but the coffee announcer. Remember away back where you bought your green coffee and did your own roasting. Now we have so many brands of coffee, all done up in cans and cartons, accompanied with such valuable publicity, that selection is quite confusing. In the old days you had about two choices, Arbuckles and XXXX.

Notice where The Journal is running a story called "Golden Rule." That's what we call it in California. It's the east they probably have another name for it.

In spite of the age-proved experience that crime does not pay, there is a lot of it going on.

There is nothing like industry to cure a case of discontent. Idleness is not only the devil's workshop, but it can start more imaginary grievances than a three-shift factory can turn out contentment. So get yourself a job and stick to it, and work hard, take the money to the family, and if you are not happy there isn't any hope for you.

Gil Cupepper says an earthquake is always introduced by a shake. Some people are sticklers for formal statistics.

A righteous cause is often defeated on account of an unrighteous leadership.

When the pitcher goes to the well of inconsistency, there is sure to be a drop in china.

One of the reasons why business isn't any better is that too many of us have run out of money.

This country will temporize with gangsters and racketeers longer than any other country in the world. I think we are suffering from national anemia.

When Lloyd Cassel Douglas, author of "Magnificent Obsession," retired from the ministry after 30 years of service, to enter a different service, he explained that his new occupation as an author gave him a larger audience through the printed word than he could obtain from the pulpit. He said he sought a larger freedom of labor and expression. After describing the variable duties that a minister is expected to perform, restrictions imposed on the calling and the household represented, he illustrated by relating an incident where a minister's daughter scandalized a party when some girl said to her that she expected the ministerial father would be horrified if he knew how long it had been since she had seen the inside of a church. The child of the manor replied with nonchalant sophistication: "I have a feeling that my father would receive the bad news very calmly, and, as for me, I don't care one sweet little damn."
